About the College:

The college is established in 1998 and is promoted by AANM & VVRSR Educational Society. It is located amidst green surroundings in the outskirts of Gudlavalleru, Krishna District, Andhra Pradesh. It holds the status of permanent affiliation to JNTUK, Kakinada and is accredited by NAAC with "A" grade. It offers B.Tech courses in eight major disciplines including the recently introduced Artificial Intelligence and Data Sciences (AI&DS) and Internet of Things (IoT) and M.Tech courses in five specializations besides MBA. The College became Autonomous from the academic year 2014-15. All its eligible B.Tech courses are accredited by NBA.

Need for the Workshop:

For college and university teachers, career advancement is predicated on publishing research in their field, so much so that 'publish or perish' has become almost axiomatic in higher education. Some institutions even insist that publishing in high-impact, peer-reviewed Scopus-, or Web of Science-, or EBSCO-indexed journals are a prerequisite for promotion. In progressive educational systems, graduate students themselves are taught through courses and year-long seminars how to conduct research and write publishable papers. But, in India, there is no such institutional support worthy of notice. Teachers with a thirst for knowledge and a positive attitude consider it an obligation to participate in the global web of scholarship, and they somehow acquire research and publishing skills through their own initiative, but such teachers are few and far between.

Even the research methodology courses offered in universities are so fuzzy, blurred and ritualistic that they do not help research scholars much in acquiring the skills necessary for conducting impactful research and disseminating it efficiently. As a result, the process (of doing research and getting published) is traumatic not just for novice teachers but even for experienced ones.

There should, therefore, be an institutional mechanism to equip teachers with research skills and the competence required for writing publishable papers. It is to meet this long-felt need that this workshop, intended to be the first in a series of such workshops in the R&D Cell, is being proposed. The scope of this workshop is, however, restricted to scholarly communication skills.

WORKSHOP OBJECTIVES

General

To demystify research publishing and to polish up the participants' scholarly communication skills by providing them hands-on practice

Specific

- To enhance the participants' understanding of researchability;
- To sharpen their skills of crafting research questions; and
- To polish up their scholarly writing skills in vocabulary, discourse organization, and style

ISSUES TO BE DEALT WITH AT THE WORKSHOP

- Demystifying research publishing: Some fundamental issues
- Researchability and crafting research questions
- Language, style, and discourse organizational patterns in scholarly communication
